Bandits Slay Gridiron Star In Bold Raid

Eight Gunmen Then Rob Roadhouse Customers of $10,000 Cash and Gems.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, October 16.—Eight gunmen armed with two machine guns and automatics held up 80 men and women patrons of "The Barn," a flashy roadhouse in Tessville, a suburb.

As the gang swept around the roadhouse to cover all entrances and exits, Joseph "Red" Goodman, noted professional football player, alighted from his roadster and started in. Without warning one of the gangsters shot him in the head and left him in the road while the robbery of those inside proceeded. Goodman died within a short time.

The two machine gunners were posted at the main entrance. All the robbers except the leader wore white masks. He had a black stocking mask over his face. The 40 couples dancing in the place were ordered against the wall with hands elevated. One of the gangsters cowed the proprietor and his assistants with a saw-edged shotgun, while the leader and two others went about the work of stripping everybody of money and jewelry. The cash registers were smashed and looted and the robbers drove away with more than $10,000 in cash and jewelry, after cutting all telephone wires.

SHAKE-UP SEEN IN WAR BUREAU IN NEAR FUTURE

President Is Said To Be Dissatisfied With Conduct of Affairs in Department.

DAVIS IS BELIEVED READY TO RESIGN

Summoned by Coolidge, Major General Summerall Arrives in Washington for Conference.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, October 16.—Official Washington is wondering whether there is to be a shake-up in the army and the war department as the result of presidential dissatisfaction with the conduct of affairs in that branch of his administration.

Resignation of Secretary of War Davis and Assistant Secretary of War MacNider would occasion little surprise in official circles where it has been understood for some time that relations between the white house and the war department have not been so harmonious as they might be.

Whether Major General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, is to be reprimanded or otherwise disciplined by his commander-in-chief, Coolidge, for reported utterances on the scandalously inadequate housing of American troops depends upon the outcome of a meeting of the two men which is expected to take place tomorrow.

Coolidge Recalled Summerall.

The president summarily recalled General Summerall from the Pacific coast where he was on an inspection tour, presumably to explain quoted utterances critical of the administration in regard to the responsibility for the housing of troops in leaky barracks and tumble-down shacks.

General Summerall reached Washington today but was unable to see the president. It was stated at the white house that General Summerall had reported but as the president was out yachting he would not receive the general before tomorrow.

General Summerall declined to receive reporters, sending out word that he could say nothing regarding his return to Washington.

The feeling in army circles is that the president will find upon investigation not only no reason to rebuke the taxpayers and that this retrenchment makes it necessary for the general was flagrantly misquoted in his San Diego speech which is supposed to have vexed the president. At the San Diego luncheon given by business men for General Summerall the local celebrities in a series of post-prandial speeches urged the general to support a drive for government apartments for the old fort in that neighborhood and for strengthening other defenses.

In replying General Summerall explained that the retrenchment in government expenses must be rigidly observed if the nation is to discharge its war debt without unduly burdening the taxpayers and that this retrenchment makes it necessary for the war department, like all other departments, to postpone expenditures on many extensions and improvements. Only the most pressing needs can be satisfied.

The general frankly told his hosts that in his opinion the rehabilitation

FOUR ARE KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Machine, Formerly Flown by Martin Jensen, Is Wrecked in Hawaii. Three Passengers Die.

Honolulu, October 16.—(United News.)—Four persons were killed in an airplane crash near here this afternoon.

The plane, a Lewis Tours machine, formerly flown by Martin Jensen on inter-island trips, was piloted by Holbrook Goodale, who was killed.

The dead in addition to Goodale were Stanley Brooks, aerial photographer and Honolulu representative of Paramount films; Janet Starr, of Honolulu, and a man still unidentified.

The plane crashed into the grounds of the Mormon temple at Laie and burned up.

OUR ARE INJURED IN STREET BATTLE

Two Men Stabbed, Another Shot, Two Women Hurt in Free-for-All in Brooklyn.

Brooklyn, N. Y., October 16.—(United News.)—Two men were stabbed, another shot, and two women injured in a street fight tonight in which about 50 persons eventually were involved. Piles of cobblestones became ammunition in the hands of the two factions and a number of windows were broken.

Tony Ramozzisi, 22, a cab driver, shot twice in the stomach and once in the neck.

Santo Lucito, 53, received stab wounds in the back.

Jacob Pischerto, 33, was stabbed in the right arm.

Dennie Ramozzisi, 22, wife of Tony, was kicked in the stomach as was Theresa Ramozzisi, 54, mother of Tony.

The fight started, according to police, when children of the Ramozzisi and the Lucito fought and brought tales to their parents. The Ramozzisi complained to Lucito and a fight started. Friends of both factions living on Morgan avenue took sides and soon everyone was fighting. Rocks flew in every direction, but apparently no one was seriously injured outside of the principal contestants.

Minister Urges Church Depose Modern Bishop

DRAMATIC SCENE STAGED IN ENGLISH CATHEDRAL

London, October 16.—(United News.)—For the first time in the long history of England's mother church, the service at St. Paul's cathedral was interrupted Sunday by a minister who demanded that the bishop, who was about to preach, be thrown out of the pulpit.

Just as Bishop Barnes, of Birmingham, prepared to deliver a sermon—"Man's Creation—Blind Creation or Design"—The Rev. G. R. Bullock Webster, accompanied by a group of young men, startled the congregation by walking up to the pulpit and upbraiding the bishop, a believer in evolution.

"I demand," he said, "that Bishop Barnes be forthwith deposed and cast out of the church until such time as he repents and recants his errors."

"It is a scandal, an offense to the faithful, that the bishop should be asked to preach from the pulpit of the mother church of England."

Then the amazed congregation saw Webster and his supporters depart. Unruffled, Bishop Barnes proceeded with his sermon.

Webster's attack was a result of the bishop's speeches in Westminster Abbey in which he declared that "Darwin's triumph has destroyed the whole theological scheme, for the assertion that man sprang from the ape has stood the test of more than half a century of critical examination and increasing knowledge."

"Careful inquiry has but confirmed the truth," Bishop Barnes had asserted.

The bishop, however, was not so inconspicuous Sunday, saying merely: "The sequence which led to man's creation could legitimately be interpreted in the words of Divine formation and, in fact, God's word. Evolution became simply God's method of creation, but man's first cousin, the gorilla, about which we have heard so much of late, hardly can be termed a creation of sweetness and grace."

"God, in creating humanity, purposely fashioned beings who could respond to His love and hope for life after death."

"Science has endeavored to show that such Christian belief could not be attained and has suggested that men were but as tools grown in dilapidated cowsheds."

HEINKEL PLANE BOUND FOR U. S. RADIO EXPOSITION WILL OPEN TODAY

Pilot Says Ship Will Leave Portugal for America as Soon as Weather Permits.

Vigo, Portugal, October 16.—(United News.)—The Heinkel plane D-1220, with a crew of three, will make a trans-Atlantic flight to North America as soon as weather permits.

Horst Merz, the pilot, cleared up the mystery of the plane's destination upon arrival of the machine tonight from Amsterdam.

The Heinkel plane, with an 800-horsepower motor, left Warnemuende, Germany, on October 12 for a destination known only to its pilot and backers.

Forced to land at Brunsbuttel, Germany, it continued to Amsterdam two days later. At 9 p. m. today it left Holland, arriving here at 6 p. m.

Merz told the United News he would continue his flight toward North America Monday if weather was favorable, thus disclosing for the first time the plane's destination. Further questioning, however, failed to elicit more specific information concerning the flight.

SEATS UNOCCUPIED

Spectators each year have been forced to stand throughout the program features owing to the fact that the decorations used on the walls and ceilings of the auditorium have been hung in such a way as to obscure the gallery seats. This year the side wall decorations have been placed on rollers and can be drawn up so that the seats in the gallery during the performance hours.

The color used throughout the auditorium in the display booth as well as in the drapes is blue, of a light, scintillating shade, which makes an extremely artistic appeal to the eye. The entire decorative plan was built up under the supervision of V. W. Sheppard, local interior decorator.

While the radio and electrical displays will all be in the main auditorium, the aeromarine display is being arranged in Tait hall. In order to make the display possible every birdlike plane was dismantled and then rebuilt inside the auditorium.

This feature of the display was one of the most nerve-racking of the entire show for the planes, each one of them in use in flying at the time the aviation show was planned, and

ONLY PILOT TO FLY LINDY'S "SPIRIT OF ST. LOUIS"

The only man who has ever flown the "Spirit of St. Louis" except Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, will arrive in Atlanta shortly after noon today.

That man is Major Thomas G. Lanphier, commanding officer of the first pursuit group of the army air service, Selfridge field, Mich., who will arrive in one of the latest and fastest types of army planes, a single seat pursuit ship capable of 170 miles an hour.

Major Lanphier flew the famous "We" while Lindy was on a visit to Selfridge field in July, the trans-Atlantic flight at the same time. The courtesy granted Major Lanphier was a friendly gesture on Lindbergh's part, the two men being close friends.

MAK KILLED, BROTHER HURT, AS FEUD FLARES

John A. Graham, Jr., Dies and Brother, Lamar, Is Seriously Wounded in Shooting at Baxley.

PLAYFUL TUSSELE STARTS QUARREL

Lester Boone Is Placed in Jail Charged With Firing Fatal Shots—All Parties Prominent.

Baxley, Ga., October 16.—(AP)—A quarrel of several months standing resulted in the death of John A. Graham, Jr., and probable fatal wounding of his brother, Lamar, here early today, while Lester Boone is held in the county jail charged with shooting them.

The shooting took place in a cafe here, where the trio met shortly after midnight. Witnesses said Lamar Graham and Boone began quarreling. Graham pulling a .38 caliber revolver, Boone was wearing, and after being told to desist, again pulled the sweater.

Boone, witnesses said, then arose and pulling a pistol fired at the Graham brothers four times, before he was overpowered and disarmed.

Families of all the participants are well known here.

John Graham is survived by his widow and two children. Lamar Graham is married and has one child, while Boone, also is married and has one child.

Boone is a graduate of the University of Georgia, and is a veterinary surgeon.

The body of Graham was carried to Eastman where interment will take place Tuesday morning at Woodlawn cemetery.

Pianist Plans To Turn City Din to Music

Godowsky Is at Work Composing Paean of Pandemonium.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, October 16.—High on the roof of the Biltmore hotel these days perches Leopold Godowsky, celebrated pianist. A baby grand is before him. Godowsky thumps. Then he cocks a million-dollar ear toward the medley of traffic noises arising from upper Broadway.

Godowsky is merely composing a paean of pandemonium, a symphony of street sounds, to play on the piano. And he wants it realistic.

Street cars rattle, motor car brakes screech, traffic policemen's whistles shrill, ambulances clang and taxi horns toot. Godowsky puts them all in. This is an interpretation, retorts the composer, sternly. "It will be beautiful when I have finished."

Each night Godowsky tells his friends he has made progress. "But, why," they argue, "must we listen to that racket all over again?" "This is an interpretation," retorts the composer, sternly. "It will be beautiful when I have finished."

CIVITANS MEETING OPENS HERE TODAY

Unofficial Welcome Given Early Arrivals Registering Sunday at Biltmore Headquarters.

Although official opening of the seventh annual convention of Georgia Civitans is scheduled for 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, early arrivals Sunday registering at the Biltmore were entertained on a special program which unofficially opened the convention. Special Civitan services were held at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the All-Saints Episcopal church, followed by a sight-seeing tour at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Of particular interest in the lobby of the Biltmore hotel, was the exhibit of the Macon school for the blind, sponsored by the Macon Civitans, and which was the center of attraction at the hotel headquarters. Members of the Macon club received much praise for the excellence of the display.

An elaborate program for the two-day stay of the Civitans has been arranged. The convention will officially get under way with a luncheon at the Biltmore today, with delegates and visitors as guests of the local club. President R. Graham West, of Atlanta, presiding. Coolidge to Offer New Farm Relief Plan to Congress

GLASS ATTACKS COOLIDGE VIEW ON LOAN VETOES

Virginia Senator Again Declares That Practice Is Not Warranted by Constitution.

President Said To Be Paying Attention to Co-operative Program Proposed by Jardine.

EQUALIZATION FEE IS STILL OPPOSED

Coolidge Is Watching Progress of Various Groups Who Are Studying Relief Methods.

Washington, October 16.—(AP)—Taking sharp issue with President Coolidge, Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, declared today in a formal statement that the state department practice of sanctioning or vetoing private bank loans to foreign governments "is not warranted by a single sentence of the constitution, implicit or otherwise, nor by any law of congress."

"I hesitate to believe," Senator Glass said, "that the president, who is so in the habit of thinking clearly and of applying his fine common sense to public problems, made the statement accredited to him by some of the newspapers with reference to state department control of loans by bankers in this country to foreign nations."

"Unconstitutional."

"Certainly it is incredible that the president support the federal constitution, in any of its provisions, confides to the executive branch of the government the right to regulate foreign commerce or, except in pursuance of treaties duly ratified by the senate and the United States and federal statutes thereunder enacted, to manage foreign affairs."

"Hence the action of the department of state in assuming to establish a policy of approving or vetoing private bank loans to foreign governments is an unconstitutional extra-constitutional and without sanction of law."

"On the contrary, the federal constitution confers on the congress of the United States, in terms, the exclusive power to regulate commerce with foreign nations." And one of the most amazing aspects of this alleged executive defense of the state department's practice in the matter of foreign loans is the statement, imputed by the president, that this government control of private financial transactions was rendered necessary through a direct threat to the national credit by legislative enactment, "inaugurate a system of control out of agreement with the judgment of the executive branch of the government."

Without Authority.

In short the state department, utterly without legal authority, sets up a dangerous policy of espionage and moral control over private loans of American bankers to foreign governments, and in justification can find no better excuse than to assert that it did it deliberately to prevent congress, expressly charged by the constitution with the regulation of such affairs, from instituting a different method of dealing with the problem."

Isaac Kaplan, Aged Man, Dies of Injuries—Several Hurt in Series of Accidents.

Isaac Kaplan, 72, of 267 Capitol avenue, died at Grady hospital Sunday morning of injuries suffered Saturday night when he was struck down by an automobile near the Capitol avenue and Fair street intersection.

The machine was operated by Loyd Evans, of 605 Hill street, according to police, who placed Hill under a $500 bond on charges of reckless driving. The aged man stepped from the curb directly into the path of the automobile, witnesses said.

Two motorists were severely shaken and cut Sunday afternoon when the automobile in which they were riding crashed head-on into a street car on Stewart avenue near Christmas street.

The machine, a light touring car, careened from the impact with the trolley and collided with another motor car operated by H. L. Angel, of 1530 Piedmont avenue.

Both occupants of the former automobile, E. S. Denise, the driver, of 526 Central avenue, and E. G. McGill, whose address was not learned, were treated at Grady hospital.

The injured men were taken to the hospital in the private ambulance of Ed Bond & Condon company.

According to the report of Patrolman R. T. McCrory, both McGill and Denise had been drinking, and police are investigating.

Mrs. W. H. Cannon, of 723 Lake avenue, was treated at Grady hospital Sunday for minor cuts suffered in a traffic mishap. No report of the case was filed with police.

Harvey Grantham, 42, of 767 Humphries street, was also treated Sunday for severe bruises about the chest and legs received when the automobile in which he was riding overturned on the Jonesboro road and rolled down an embankment.

Others injured were Lucile Grantham, 13, and Clarence Sanders, 16, both of 767 Humphries street.

Washington, October 16.—(AP)—After a summer of silence, President Coolidge is disclosing to his friends that he is giving the question of a sound agricultural relief policy his close attention in anticipation of recommendations to be made to the next congress.

There are as yet no indications regarding the president's views, except a belief held by those who have discussed the problem with him that he is as determinedly opposed as ever to the equalization fee principle of the McNary-Haugen bill which he vetoed last winter.

With spokesmen of some farm organizations still insisting that this provision again will be demanded next winter, it appears that the way to a compromise has not yet been found, but it is believed in many quarters that some sort of conciliation will be effected.

The viewpoint from which the president has watched developments in the farm relief situation is not apparent, nor is there any indication whether his summer in the west gave him any new opinions in the matter. Secretary Jardine has been credited with working out the details of a new co-operative marketing measure, with a $30,000,000 fund to be loaned to farmers and co-operators, but whether such a measure is being formulated under encouragement from Mr. Coolidge has not been disclosed.

Without presenting letters of recall or paying any of the usual diplomatic visits to President Doumergue, Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand, Ambassador Rakowsky secretly left the Russian embassy with his family at 6 a. m. bound for Berlin.

The secret departure, made by automobile, prevented political manifestations and was regarded in the Quai D'Orsay as a direct snub.

Newspapers had been given warning information tending to create the impression that Rakowsky, who in his younger days was expelled from at least five countries, and who was recalled upon France's urgent solicitations, had left Paris Saturday.

Rakowsky was recalled last week by Foreign Minister George Tchicherin after France had requested twice that the ambassador be recalled.

The ambassador was charged, had signed a manifesto urging soldiers to desert the French army in the event of war with the Soviet.

In announcing the recall, Tchicherin reluctantly agreed to the French demand.

Convinced that the soviet foreign minister wrote this note in anger, the French foreign office took the attitude that France and Russia must avoid any controversy which might prejudice the settlement of the Franco-Russian debt question now pending.

But Rakowsky's undiplomatic departure gave a new complexion to the international situation. While the Quai D'Orsay refused to comment on Rakowsky's action, it was understood French diplomats were displeased with this breach of diplomatic courtesy.

Ambassador Rakowsky Leaves for Home Without Usual Formalities.

Paris, October 16.—Disregarding all diplomatic custom, Christian Rakowsky, recalled soviet ambassador to France, took French leave of Paris.

ROADS TO FIGHT ALABAMA TAX

Montgomery, Ala., October 16.—(AP) The first fight on the recently enacted revenue bill for Alabama is forecast by the payment of nearly a quarter million dollars into the state treasury, under protest by four railroad companies. This payment represents the 21-2 per cent tax upon gross receipts on intrastate business in Alabama during the past year. The four railroads which indicate an intention of contesting the validity of the privilege tax and the amount each paid are: The Southern Railway company, $128,817.90; Alabama Great Southern, $41,398.63; Northern Alabama railway, $22,791.99; Mobile & Ohio, $22,220.14. Representatives of the railroad companies making the payments under protest served notice that they reserved the right to bring action for recovery of principal and interest within the time allowed by law on the grounds that the act of the legislature imposing the tax is unconstitutional. One of the contentions advanced by the railroad companies is that these corporations are foreign companies and, therefore, not subject to a privilege tax in Alabama. This tax was due October 1, but not delinquent until November 15. The levy is based upon the earnings of the roads for the fiscal year ending December 31, 1933.

FIRST OF TWELVE LASH TRIALS TO START

hama, who personally directed the grand jury investigation, said last night that 45 persons were mentioned in the 102 indictments returned. In its report to Judge A. E. Gamble, the grand jury said all of those indicted were "members of the Ku Klux Klan and with a single exception, all of the floggings were committed by men wearing the robes and hoods of the Klan."

The arrests are the outgrowth of the most sweeping investigation into masked violence ever undertaken in Alabama. Men high in the affairs of the state and county, as well as prominent citizens and alleged high officials in the Ku Klux Klan were called before the grand jury.

Seized Records. The investigating body delved deep into the innermost secrets of the Klan, seized records and regalia of the Luerne Klavern and wrote a report that the "barbaric terrorism" in Crenshaw county can be attributed directly to evil leadership in the Ku Klux Klan, at war with all constituted authorities.

The grand jury said in its report that the leaders of the Klan in the state were "derelict to their duties as citizens" and advised the grand jury that the men at the head of the organization were "unworthy of trust."

Attorney General McCall has indicated that trial of the accused men will probably begin November 21.

FIRST OF LASH TRIALS OPENS TODAY

Birmingham, Ala., October 16.—(AP) The first of eleven men recently indicted on charges of flogging two white men and a negro will go on trial in Jefferson county tomorrow, with Attorney General Charlie McCall directing the prosecution.

McCall, who has just returned from Crenshaw county, where he directed a grand jury investigation of floggings in that county, tonight declared he believed that convictions would result from the trials here.

Julius Lumpkin, indicted for flogging, will be the first of the eleven men to face trial. Trial of W. J. Worthington, prominent Birmingham attorney, indicted for bribery and kidnapping in connection with the whipping of Arthur Hitt, a negro, following his refusal to sell the farm on which he made his home, is expected to be called at an early date. Hitt, it is alleged, was frightened into selling his farm for $900, considerably below its estimated value, after being flogged repeatedly and threatened by a masked band. The real estate transfer records showed Worthington as the purchaser.

In addition to Worthington and Lumpkin other men to be tried on charges growing out of masked whippings are: Louis C. Albright, Lee A. Clayton, Eugene Doss, Ira Davis, Andrew Cluze, J. O. Sizemore, C. J. Seale, Ellis Ratliffe and J. A. Clayton.

measure would be carried forward next winter along substantially the same lines as it was last session. There will be a disposition to accept changes, however. Gray added, but the principle of controlling crop surpluses and permitting the crops to pay their own expenses—which in substance is the equalization fee principle—will be demanded without quarter.

Changes which the McNary-Haugen supporters will accept, Mr. Coolidge has been told, will be a reduction of the revolving fund from $300,000 to perhaps $225,000,000; selection by the president of the federal farm board, the same as any federal board is chosen, instead of from a list of candidates nominated by representatives of the farmers, and increase or reduction of the number of commodities to be affected or the application of the proposed measure to only one or two crops as an experiment.

Announcement Soon. Some of the president's advisers believe he may soon make public his farm relief plan for the winter in view of his recent inclination to discuss the subject. Others consider it unlikely that any comprehensive idea of what he has in mind will be gained until he sends his annual message to congress.

In the meantime numerous farm organizations as well as some business organizations have notified Mr. Coolidge that they are canvassing the whole situation. Representatives of the American Farm Bureau federation, the National Grange, and the Farmers union will meet in Washington November 8, when an attempt will be made to reach an agreement to press for enactment of a farm relief bill next winter. Heretofore the grange and the farm bureau have not agreed on the McNary-Haugen bill.

each one adjusted to a fine point, had to be taken down, bit by bit, and then reassembled with great care and fidelity.

Three Models. The three models which exposition officials believe are assured for the display are the American Eagle, the Alexander Eagle Rock and the Waco 10. All are equipped with Curtiss OX-5 engines.

The American Eagle is entered by Dan Mills, of the Atlanta Aero Service, who conducts a training school at Tugalo field, Decatur.

The Alexander Eagle Rock, manufactured in Denver, is entered by Beeler Blevins, pioneer aviator, and head of the Georgia Aircraft company. The machine, like the American Eagle, is a light commercial plane and will seat two passengers and pilot. It's wing spread is 36 feet, it is 28 feet long and will carry a load of 2,120 pounds.

The Waco No. 10 is the entry of the Advance Aircraft company, of Troy, Ohio, through Doug Davis, well-known pilot, instructor and business man. It is 22 feet long and boasts a wing spread of 31 feet. The same type plane won the recent New York-Spokane air derby. It will carry three passengers.

The approximate speed of the planes is rated at 105 miles. They all combine every established device for safety and stability.

These huge mechanical birds, far bigger than the average viewer from the grounds would imagine, will make an imposing spectacle. Experts will be on hand to explain all details.

Despite the fact that every airplane manufacturer of consequence in America is sorely pressed in filling the present enormous demand for planes, the concerns aiding the Atlanta show managed to spare the machines as an educational opportunity the southern public has never enjoyed before.

The aeronautic exhibit will be on view at all official hours of the exposition.

A luncheon at Camp Civitan, followed by a program arranged by the Atlanta council of Girl Scouts, on Tuesday afternoon will be one of the most outstanding and interesting items on the entire two-day program.

Selection of 1935 convention meeting place, reports of state clubs, committees and officers will feature the business sessions on Monday and Tuesday. In addition to this routine business, it is also hinted that a constitutional amendment designed to have a more far-reaching effect than any action ever taken by a civic organization, will also come before the Civitans at the business session. The nature of the proposed amendment was not revealed by officers of the association.

STAMMERING

Stammering, tho it is one of the most distressing afflictions that flesh is heir to, has been so neglected by the medical profession, by the whole normal world, that not only is there little known about it, either as to cause or method by which the thing may be cured, but the stammerer himself knows nothing at all about it. That is why he can't cure himself, why parents can't cure their stammering children. The cause, certainly as to the cause, as well as a scientific method for the cure of stammering, is of recent discovery. It is not like disease, some cases curable and some not. Any case of stammering in the world is curable.

Stammering is so much more prevalent than is commonly believed. There are 500 stammerers in Atlanta approximately; 6,000 in the state of Georgia, and 250,000 in the United States. Like everything else it runs true to the law of averages, the statistics being easily arrived at.

The best evidence of the merit of an institution claiming to cure stammering is the testimony of ex-students or their parents. We submit some testimony: A prominent clergyman of Louisiana writes about his son after four weeks with us: "My son reached home yesterday morning. I am not only satisfied, I am delighted. Not only delighted but profoundly grateful to you for what you have done for him. Down town yesterday he talked all afternoon, and not a word he uttered suggested that he ever had an impediment. We were amazed, and the wonder with all of us was, how did you do it?" A prominent attorney of Houston, Texas, writes: "Robert reached home from your school last Friday. His mother and I were astounded at his improvement. So far as we can tell he is completely cured." A young man whose home is in Jacksboro, Texas, a year after leaving us says: "I have forgotten that I ever stammered." He was practically speechless when he came to us. A young woman in an Alabama city reports about her case: "Leaving for your school I was almost in despair. There was just a little hope that I might be cured, but no more than that. Parties and social pleasures, once denied me because I couldn't talk, have for me now the same delight as for any normal girl." A young man in Newark, New Jersey, told me that he entered the war in the hope that he might be killed, the prospect seemed so hopeless. In a recent letter he writes: "I have lost all my fear. I can talk to anybody anywhere, any time. I can talk over the telephone and address a public audience, impossible in the old days."

THE NAMES AND ADDRESSES OF THOSE WHO REPORT THEIR CASES AS ABOVE, WITH MANY LIKE THEM, WILL BE FURNISHED ON REQUEST. THUS YOU MAY LEARN FROM STAMMERERS THEMSELVES ABOUT US AND OUR WORK.

Stammering is not disease. There is no defect in the speech organs. The only difference between the stammerer and the normal person is, that the stammerer has something in his sub-conscious mind which the normal person does not have, and therein lies the secret of all the trouble. What is in the sub-conscious mind, the secret intangible cause of the trouble, must be got out. When that is gone the stammering is gone. We have discovered and can teach any stammered how it may be done.

Coming to us, if you are not perfectly satisfied with results you may have your money back by simply asking for it.

Paris says:

IF YOU would be smart, wear this color. If you would be in fashion, bob your hair this way. If you would be well-dressed, wear clothes simply designed as I make them.

Paris today sets the correct fashion in women's clothes, for a waiting world, because with French women dressing is a studied art. Their chic is supreme.

Through advertising, the genius of Paris is brought to the attention of thousands of American women. In Seattle, a charming lady wears the newest Paris hat. In Texas—a pretty girl chooses Fashion's newest necklace of sparkling crystal. An Iowa newspaper advertises a copy of a Paris frock at a moderate price within ten weeks of its appearance in the French capital.

If you would be well-dressed—choose your clothes thriftily and successfully—wear them with style and charm, watch what the charming ladies in advertisements wear, and read what is written in the magic name of Paris.

Read the advertisements and you will not only read what Paris says, but what the women of America do Feel Stiff and Achy?

To Be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons From the Blood.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired and drowsy—suffer nagging backache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? Do you wonder what is wrong?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Active kidneys free the blood of poisonous waste. sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If you have reason to believe your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them by using a tested diuretic. Doan's Pills have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have established a nationwide reputation. Are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Needy Children Provided For At Home for the Friendless

Out on Highland avenue there is maintained an institution known as "The Home for the Friendless," and in it are housed some of the most adorable, friendliest children and babies one could wish to see.

This home has been in operation for more than 30 years and is now one of the main agencies of the Atlanta Community Chest, for which funds to operate during the coming year will be solicited in the annual drive beginning Friday, October 21.

Here little kiddies are taken in and cared for when there is no one else to care for them. They are given a real home in the true sense of the word. To look at them and play with them one would never imagine them as being inmates of an institution. They have the appearance of children who are cared for every minute of the day by kind and loving parents. Miss Annie McElreath is responsible for this. They are taught to mind through kindness and love rather than force and threat of punishment.

Love Rather Than Force.

"I believe in making children mind, but I let them see the reason for their mindings rather than forcing them to obey me at the moment without any lasting effect," said Miss McElreath. "I have found that I can do more with these children by making them feel it their duty to obey and avoid hurting my feelings or those of my assistants here. They have tender little hearts and it is easy to work with them through love rather than severe punishment."

Children are admitted to this home when it is found they are not adequately cared for at their "real" home because of the absence of one or both parents or when the parents are financially or physically unable to care for them.

Many heart-rending cases come to the attention of the home in this way. One little golden-haired, blue-eyed girl, after a year of careful attention, has developed into a pretty and attractive child. When she came to the attention of the home she was so badly neglected that it was necessary to burn her clothes. Her little body had to be fumigated and scrubbed before it could even begin to look clean. Her tiny feet were so bruised and sore from not wearing shoes over a long period of time that it was necessary to keep them in bandages for a period of three weeks and even then she could only bear bedroom slippers. Her hair, now fluffy and soft, was so matted and neglected that it took weeks of attention and treatment before it even resembled hair. Today she is a happy, normal child, with a hold on life and a bright outlook. Her mother is dead and her father an invalid and unable to care for her.

Hundreds of similar cases come before the authorities of this home. Each is investigated and aided. At the home the children of kindergarten and first grade age are taught in the afternoon by teachers supplied by the Atlanta public school system. The other children are sent to the public schools in the vicinity.

This is a real cause and one of the worthiest for which the Community Chest exists. One visit there would easily convince the most skeptical of the vast amount of work that an organized charity of this type does for little children—the future citizens of Atlanta.

When we were Boys

We grownups often refer to the time when we were boys, and it seems to us that in those days things were so different to what they are now—especially in the matter of dress.

Which is a fact. Boys are different now.

We sense the change more than some people because we are still selling clothes to men of 60 who began buying here at the age of 10. Also, we are selling their sons and grandsons.

In our Boys' Department is everything that boys wear—Hats, Shoes, Suits, Overcoats and Furnishings. Being made right, styled right and priced right, why shouldn't we enjoy the patronage of every boy who likes nice things?

Central of Georgia's Informative Advertising Enters Seventh Year

Six years ago the Central of Georgia began the practice of taking the public into its confidence through paid advertisements in newspapers in its territory. The results have amply justified that policy.

During each of the past seventy-two months the Central of Georgia has discussed in these statements some timely feature of the railroad situation. The subjects selected for discussion have been of mutual interest to the public and the railroads. The management of this railroad recognizes that it is a servant of the public, and that its friends and patrons have a right to know the truth about the transportation situation. It has been careful about the facts and figures cited in these monthly messages, realizing that only upon a program of truthful frankness can public confidence be won and held.

The Central of Georgia was the first railroad in the South to adopt the policy of taking the public into its confidence in this way. Its campaign was founded upon the belief that the public is essentially fairminded when correctly informed, and the past six years have confirmed that belief. A great many replies have been received to these monthly messages in the newspapers. Practically all of these replies have been commendatory or approving, but even the critical ones have apparently been written in a spirit of fairmindedness. There has been a gratifying response, too, to the invitation closing each advertisement that "constructive criticism and suggestions are invited."

The past six years have been important ones to this country. No other part of the world has gone ahead so fast, and during this period America has enjoyed a prosperity that is in striking contrast to the economic distress of many other countries. Both in industry and in agriculture this country has developed rapidly, and efficient, economical transportation service has contributed largely to this progress.

The improvement in railroad service within the past six years has been due in considerable measure to the change in the popular attitude toward the railroads. Confidence and a willingness to co-operate have replaced antagonism and distrust. Certain fundamental truths about the railroad situation are now generally known. The public understands that the railroads serve a certain definite need, and that service is of paramount importance. The railroad patron knows that poor service at low rates is far more costly to him than efficient transportation service at fair rates. There is a willingness to live and let live, and the recognition that the investor in railroad securities has the same right to a fair return as has the investor in industrial stocks and bonds. The old charge that the railroads are owned in Wall Street is seldom heard now, as the intelligent public understands that railroad securities are largely held by trust and insurance companies, by railroad workers and by investors of moderate means.

The Central of Georgia likes to feel that its campaign of open and free discussion has helped to bring about the era of better feeling and mutual understanding now existing between the railroads and their patrons. Its plans to continue its monthly messages, placing the facts about the railroad situation before a fairminded public, confident that by so doing it is advancing the interest not only of this railroad but of the public it serves.

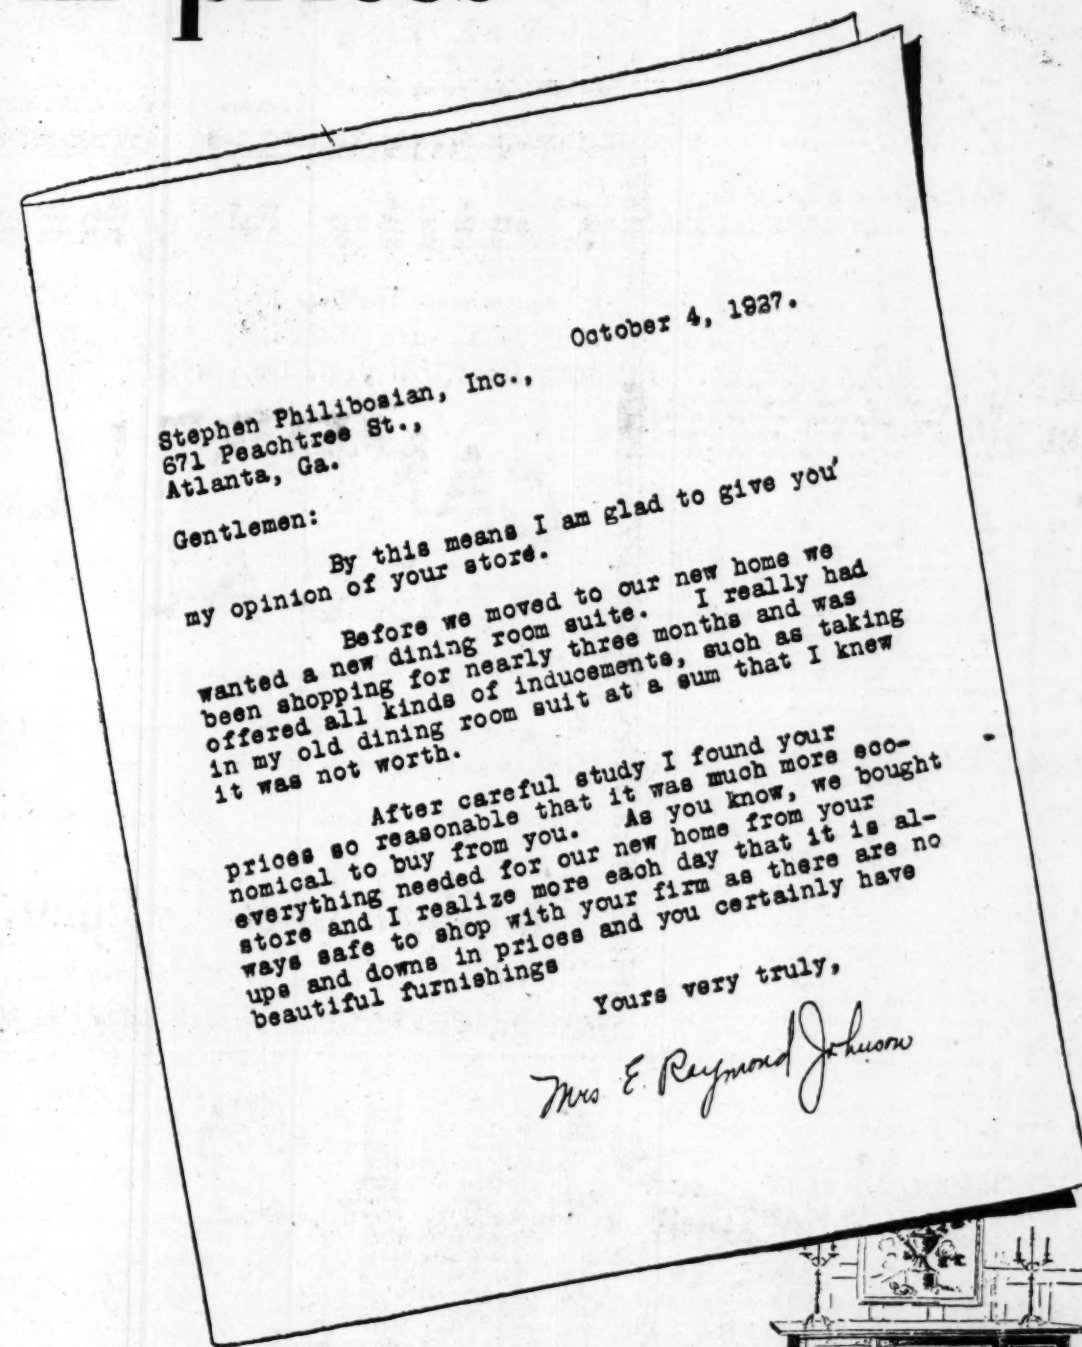

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

J. J. PELLEY,

President, Central of Georgia Railway Company.

Savannah, Ga., October 16, 1927.

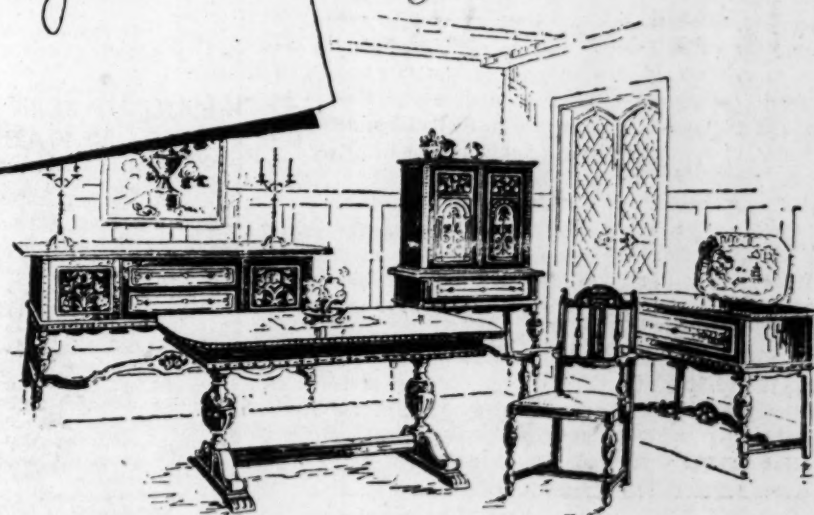

"No ups and downs in prices"

This letter from one of our good customers is printed because it states a fact of which this store is justly proud.

Prices do not fluctuate here. They represent, from first to last, as nearly as we can judge exactly what the goods are worth.

The whole selling plan of this store is based on the idea of offering you your money's worth in good measure, "heaped up, pressed down and running over."

It is a fixed policy to make prices as low as possible by selling always for cash; to keep prices uniform; never to mark them up in busy seasons nor mark them down for special sales.

This is a new idea in furniture selling. The management believes it is the real way to sell, and is proving it by the values offered here.

You, too, can feel safe in buying at Philibosian's, where there are no "ups and downs in prices"—where it is a creed to keep every piece marked at its lowest selling value all the time.

Level Mercury, Fair Weather Today's Prophecy

Level temperatures and fair weather today will be followed Tuesday by increasing cloudiness with probable rains in the southern part of the state, according to the forecast issued late Sunday night from the bureau at Washington.

Mercury extremes here Sunday ranged from 48 to 72 degrees, while today's are expected to approximate these figures.

For almost a week Atlanta has enjoyed typical fall weather; days too warm for steam heat, and nights too cold to do without it.

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing. Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Universal factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

Are you on the Sunlit Road to Better Health?

YOU CANNOT "BREAK-IN" WITH A BROKEN-OUT SKIN!

If you are frequently ignored, side-stopped and shunned by "polite society" perhaps your mirror will tell you why.

A pimply, broken-out skin has kept many a person from "breaking-in" among people who give to their own skin the care and attention it needs. Instead of skin's popularity to neglect, ask for Black and White Ointment and use it according to directions. It is pleasant to use, highly beneficial and scientifically safe.

For best results use Black and White Skin Soap with Black and White Ointment. All dealers sell them at small cost.

REPORTER WRITES HIS LAST STORY AS PLANE FALLS

San Antonio, Texas, October 16.—(P)—Notes scribbled by a reporter while "covering" his story gave newspapers their first authentic account of the airplane crash which killed five persons here last night.

For some time after a five-passenger monoplane had crashed at Stinson field, killing all its occupants, reporters were unable to learn the names of the victims. In the pockets of W. W. Winburn, the dead reporter, was found a sheet of newspaper copy paper which contained the names of the party and details concerning the flight.

Winburn had made the notes for a story he intended to write on the flight of Ed Cavanagh, his wife and four-month-old baby. Winburn, the Cavanaghs and Buel Clark, the pilot, all were killed.

Winburn had sought to be generous and allow McMillan, staff photographer for his paper, to make the flight. McMillan handed the plates he had just made to Winburn to be taken to the dark room and himself got into the plane, but the Cavanaghs insisted that Winburn accompany them. Winburn then took McMillan's place, neglecting to return the plates. When Winburn's body was taken from the wreckage the plates were shattered but the notes were intact. They contained the details necessary to complete the story.

SOVIET ENVOYS ARE TOLD TO KEEP ON NARROW PATH

(Copyright, 1927, for The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Berlin, October 16.—The soviet authorities have admonished their diplomatic agents abroad, advising the members to keep away from capitalistic night life. The soviet charge d'affaires at Warsaw recently became involved in a brawl in one of the city's most expensive cabarets and similar experiences of soviet representatives in haunts of luxury have been reported to Moscow with the result that the soviet headquarters has sent out an order to the diplomats to keep on the narrow path and leave the night clubs to the butter and egg men of the capitalistic countries.

MARKET CONDITION DOESN'T SURPRISE

BY R. L. BARNUM.

New York, October 16.—It is not surprising that the stock market after an upward movement of 127 points in the average price and a daily turnover of more than 3,000,000 shares for the ninth time in the history of Wall street, has developed into a two-sided affair. Strong opinions are being expressed on both sides of the financial and industrial situation and outlook. What is being said by recognized leaders makes for a two-sided stock market.

Melvin A. Taylor, president of the American Bankers' association, speaks for those who hold that this country will never again see a panic. Mr. Taylor says in part: "Certainly we cannot look forward to an unbroken continuation of expansion at the rate of the past two or three years; but at the same time we need not fear a recurrence of conditions that will plunge the nation into the depths of the more violent financial panics such as have occurred in times past."

Mr. Taylor believes that the machine built up under the federal reserve system for promoting smooth operations and control of our money is largely responsible for the new financial and industrial world in which our business men are living. He believes that the railroads, too, are partly responsible by creating increased efficient transportation, thereby reducing the time for goods in transit and hence permitting our working capital to remain in more liquid form. He believes that efficient mechanical mass production methods have been a factor by enabling industry to absorb both falling commodity prices and advancing wages. Other factors named by Mr. Taylor in our changed conditions include the progress made in research and educational work; trustworthy statistical material such as has never before existed in this country, by which production and distribution schedules may be guided to bring about greater coordination between supply and demand.

Many Who Agree.

There are many people in and out of Wall street who agree with this very bright picture painted by the head of the American Bankers' association.

In recent months and weeks there has been an increasing number of people in and out of Wall street who agree with all that Mr. Taylor says but who see something else. Those in the class last named have been talking among themselves, not for publication. So far the nearest to what is privately being talked to find its way into print was the brief statement of a few weeks ago by Banker Mitchell of Chicago, to the effect that while general business was good and likely to remain so "The antics of the stock market have put us in a dangerous mood. We are being encouraged to expect too much."

Two reasons might be given for why up to the present time Banker Mitchell, of Chicago, has been alone in giving publicity to views that have been widely voiced privately in responsible quarters. One is that the trend of the stock market has discredited such statements. The other is the national disinclination to say anything in a published statement in the nature of what we call "cease hanging."

As an economist with an international reputation, the writer of the bill which became the federal reserve law, and afterward as secretary of the federal reserve board at Washington, H. Parker Willis has fearlessly overcome those two objections and has taken a stand in a widely discussed published statement. Mr. Willis in his statement says that the outstanding feature of the recent stock market has been the "efforts on the part of the banks to protect themselves and in some way check what is now regarded as a very hazardous movement in stocks. These efforts have not been particularly successful, the reason being that the situation has now apparently got pretty well out of hand and all that can be done by the several banks is to avoid getting into a more extended position."

Talks of Loans.

Banks cannot under the law own stocks. What Mr. Willis is talking about is the $4,000,000,000 brokers loans made on stocks. After much plain talk on the question of brokers loans Mr. Willis adds: "The question at issue of course continues to be whether the credit mechanism can be run even at a higher speed and the entire bubble inflated still further without imminent danger that it will collapse."

Mr. Willis points out that in view of the existing stock market there has naturally been a great deal of scanning of the business situation and outlook in the hope that something might develop that would relieve the anxiety. The conclusions he draws from the general business situation and outlook are: "The more the situation is studied the more it seems clear that stock market values must be sustained if at all within coming months on the basis of politics and money rates rather than on the basis of industrial merit."

After lengthy discussion of business and political situation and outlook and the market for foreign and domestic loans he says: "So inflated and expanded is the stock market at this time that according to the opinion of a good many almost anything might happen in the immediate future. The market is, however, strongly supported and shows great power of recuperating. As a result the most frequent prediction now is in favor of an irregular market with wider and wider swings which result from profit taking followed by support that puts prices back to their old level. Until some definite new development takes place to give the market a fairly positive impetus in one direction or another it is pretty generally believed that much the same conditions as during the past week or two will go on. But it is recognized that the market now is in unstable equilibrium and that a sudden shock may cause violent reaction at almost any moment."

Tech's Defeat of Alabama Leaves Conference Race Open

Jackets Lead S. C. Elevens With 3 Wins

1927 Battle for Title Honors Is Now Wide Open With 'Bama Out.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Other southern conference performances were dwarfed into comparative insignificance Saturday when Alabama was finally toppled from the pinnacle occupied in the section's gridiron structure for the past four years.

Alabama's loss is more significant to the conference as a whole, than Tech's victory—although the latter is highly important in fixing the Tornado definitely as an up-and-coming contender for the championship honors that Alabama seems doomed to relinquish at last.

Wide Open Race. The result achieved something that has not been the case since Wallace Wade and his heroic Tide-men began their domination of the football scene south of the Potomac—it left the conference race wide open, a hustling, team's affair still fraught with hectic chances.

Florida and Tennessee have emerged unscathed from two conference encounters each, Georgia Tech from three. North Carolina State, Georgia and Mississippi A. and M. have won their only games within the group. Louisiana State is burdened with no conference losses, but was forced to be content with a deadlock against Alabama.

To add intensity to the upset, Alabama's tie game with L. S. U. had been more generally taken as a sign of Louisiana's new-found power than as any indication that Alabama was tending to recede from her heights.

Gators Continue. Florida, continuing the scoring power demonstrated last week against Auburn, administered a thumping to the University of Kentucky Wildcats, 27 to 6. This was the first conference game the Wildcats had played.

The Mississippi Aggies made auspicious entry into conference circles by defeating Tulane, 13 to 6, handing the Green Wave their second defeat on successive Saturdays.

Tennessee added another victory to her string at the expense of Ole Miss, which aggregation was taken into camp by a 21-to-7 count.

Surprise was registered throughout the southland when Georgia Tech, 9 to 0 score, which L. S. U. accumulated against Auburn, a team obviously not up to high standards of former seasons. The result was a determined effort at betterment under Boozie Pitts' direction and L. S. U.'s possible relaxation after the bitter test against Alabama last week.

In the battle of the lie-mouts, South Carolina, conqueror of Virginia, came out ahead of North Carolina, 14 to 6, to confound much prophetic store by the Tarheels' defeat of Maryland a week ago.

Virginia took the field against V. M. I. in the traditional battle, and apparently infuriated by successive losses at the hands of Georgia and South Carolina, romped home with the more important end of a 13-to-8 score.

V. P. I. entered conference competition for the first time Saturday in rather disastrous fashion, following up a sensational victory over Colgate in an eastern fair with a defeat by Maryland, 13 to 7.

Although there has been no inclination to underestimate the force of the Tide-men, there was some astonishment at Texas' defeat of Vanderbilt, 13 to 6, chiefly because of the overwhelming scores. Spears, Armstrong and associates have been smashing against their other opponents, Vandy swings into the conference Saturday against Tulane.

Washington and Lee failed in their purpose to make this year's triumph the sequel to last year's tie with Princeton, in another inter-sectionalally, but acquitted themselves nobly against the Tigers of the Orange and Blue, holding the New Jersey outfit to a 13-to-0 victory. Next Saturday the Generals play Kentucky.

The University of Georgia, while unengaged in conference play, laid into Furman with a vengeance to atone for the defeat suffered last year before the Purple Hurricane and succeeded, winning over Billy Law's scintillant eleven by a 22-to-0 score.

North Carolina State had taken a day's jump on the conference brethren, defeating Wake Forest, 18 to 7, in a Friday game.

Sewanee and Clemson both spent idle Saturdays, Sewanee prepping for its baptism of conference fire against Alabama Saturday, and Clemson hoping for Thursday's tilt with South Carolina.

Moore and Macon Meet in Main Go

Billy Hooper, colored fight promoter, announces that he has two good leather pushers for the main go at his next fight to be staged at the colored Elks club Tuesday night.

Richard Moore, Texas scrapper, has been secured to meet Kid Macon in the feature bout of his next show. Moore comes to Atlanta with a good record in the ring. According to Hooper this dark battler has won most of his latest bouts by knockouts. Macon is well known in these parts for his fighting ability and promises to put up a good battle.

Battling Moon will meet Battling Sissy in another feature scrap, and Eddie Cox and Battling Harris will swap punches in another bout. Two other good scraps will open the card.

WALTER JOHNSON TELLS OF BRILLIANT CAREER AS HE HANGS UP GLOVE

BY FRANK GETTY. (Copyright, 1927, by United News.)

Alta Vista, Md., October 16.—"You'll find father out in the back with his dogs," said Mrs. Walter Johnson.

As she spoke, the first of the pack came bounding around the corner of the pleasant, white Maryland farmhouse, snuffling with lowered inquisitive noses and wagging friendly tails.

"Father," as his wife and five bright-eyed, flaxen-haired children call the greatest of modern pitchers, was there, sure enough, engaged in dusting fleas from his dog's back.

And now, after some fox hound pups only a few days old.

His family, his dogs and baseball. There you have Walter Johnson's trinity.

And now, after 20 years at the top of the game he loves, the famous pitcher is asked for and receives his unconditional release from the Washington American league club.

The lean, muscular, sun-burnt man who smiled beneath the brim of a battered brown hat and extended a gnarled hand which has flung baseballs better than anyone else, belled in looks at least his opening remark.

"I just felt," said Johnson, "that my days of usefulness to the Washington club as an active player were about over."

At 41, an age he will attain November 7, Walter Johnson every inch the figure of an athlete. In appraising his impending retirement from the playing field, one should not mistake the belief that "Barney" is an old man.

"Baseball has been kind to me," Walter said, "and Washington fans have been particularly kind to me."

"I had rather hoped to wind up my baseball career right here in Washington, but—well, I guess it just didn't work out that way."

There was no doubt, from the manner of Johnson's rather disconsolate expression as he said this, that the big pitcher had hoped to be able to continue with the Senators until he quit baseball for good.

His departure is voluntary, but only because conditions on the Washington club make him feel that it is for the best.

"I didn't want Griff (Clark Griffith, president of the Senators) to feel that he was paying me for something I had done in the past," explained Johnson.

"We didn't do so very well this year, and they wanted to build up the club with young fellows."

Griff didn't send me a contract and I just decided it was a good time to get out. So I told him that if he would give me my unconditional release, I would obtain the consent of the other clubs to my becoming a free agent. It would be all right with me."

The pitcher said that he believed the club owners would advise Griffith of their consent.

Would Carry On. "Of course," he added, "one of them might claim me, as they have a right to do. In which case, if I receive the right kind of an offer from someone who really wanted me—why, I might keep on."

Walter was asked if he would consider accepting the managership of one of a number of major league clubs now casting about for pilots for 1928.

"Why, yes," he replied without hesitation. "Like every ball player, I'd be glad to have charge of a major league club and at least see if I could make a success of it."

Johnson left Sunday for Virginia, to be present at the judging of some hunting dogs. Few men know more about them than the pitcher.

I expect that in a few days Griffith will hear from the other owners that they agree to my release," he explained. "Then I'll see what I will do."

Are you going to miss pitching? "I sure will," he answered with that ready smile so familiar to baseball photographs of the past two decades.

But then, if the opportunity presents itself, I may get into uniform and pitch a few games, even now."

I love baseball. It's brought me too much for me to get giving up any part of it until I have to."

"What was the greatest thrill you got out of the game in 20 years?" "Well," replied Johnson thoughtfully, "you see I was with the Senators so long, and we were in a rut for so many years, and the fans were for me, and so kind to me all those years."

He hesitated a minute.

I guess the thing I like to remember most about baseball is how we finally got to the top and into the world series of 1924 with the Giants, and how the fans came to me and my friends came to me and everyone was so glad about it, and then there came the chance to pitch for them, and I did, and won."

There was that last game," he continued, after a pause, "and I was lucky to get my chance, the chance to go in there and pitch the deciding inning, when we won the world's championship. It was lucky, that's all."

Thus spoke Walter Johnson about his greatest triumph, the final defeat of the New York Giants in that famous 12-inning game before the fans of Washington.

"I was lucky," he says.

Well, that is Walter Johnson's way. If you could look inside his mind today you would find that he now considers himself just a little bit unlucky—in having to sever his connections with the Washington club he served so ably and so long.

Victim's Brother Aids State. The state will have for an ally Harry F. Brown, of Ford, Ontario, brother of Mrs. Remus, who has announced that he will remain in Cincinnati to aid the prosecutors.

Brown today ridiculed Remus' statements that he is penniless and a report that Romola Remus and Remus' first wife were raising a $5,000 defense fund in Chicago.

"Romola Remus," Brown said, "was recently paid $25,000 proceeds of the sale of beer from the Freiberg and Workum distillery at Mayville, Wisconsin. Remus recently received $11,000 from Miss Blanche Watson, of Covington, Ky., as his share of the proceeds from the sale of certain whisky certificates."

George Remus, who made a million dollars by bootlegging—who believes fate controls his destiny—has 20 days more before embarking upon his attempt to win acquittal for killing his wife on October 6, the day of their divorce hearing.

Saturday he pleaded "not guilty" to the grand jury indictment of first degree murder which charged "premeditated and malicious" murder.

Judge Shook set the trial for November 14.

Tomorrow Remus will present to Judge Shook affidavits representing positions he wishes to obtain as evidence and the judge will pass upon their sufficiency.

YARBROUGH WINNINGS CLUB CHAMP

A. A. Yarbrough is the new champion of the Vinnings Hills Golf club.

Flashing a steady brand of golf, Yarbrough sailed through the final match in the championship flight and came out with a 2-up victory over A. P. Mauldin to cap the title of the club and the handsome trophy offered by The Constitution for the winner of the championship.

The new champion was forced to the limit by his opponent in the final round of the match to win the title. Mauldin displayed a good game of golf and at times looked as if he would take the lead from his foe.

Both finalists came through the early matches in fine fashion and placed themselves at the head of the golfing list.

The tournament has been in progress for some five weeks and saw some good matches take place in the early part of the season.

Notre Dame stamped a mid-western trade-mark on the intersectional clash at Baltimore, outclassing the Navy in every department of play.

From what the Irish showed against the Navy, it appears quite possible that Knute Rockne has another national championship team in the making.

Plenty Reserves. Christy Flanagan, Neimpe and Dahman form a formidable backfield trio, but the expansive Rockne has subs by the dozen, and at least three really high-class elevens under his command.

The Navy line, particularly on the left side, showed the weakness foreseen by the experts. Art Spring, Navy halfback, who was substituted for Lloyd, the towering 200-pound star, played an amazing game against the Irish, a lone midshipman rampaging and unwilling to concede the superiority of the foe. Spring was carried from the field, badly hurt, as was Chevigne, one of Notre Dame's halfbacks.

Yale and Harvard played football Saturday rather reminiscent of the good old days of eastern supremacy. The Bulldog downed Harvard, avenging last year's defeat. Harvard hand the Holy Cross a beating, such as the Crimson has had to take from the Purple in the past few years.

Incidentally, the lateral pass, so much discussed before the season began, is less in evidence than was expected. Only one such pass was tried in the game.

Walter was asked if he would consider accepting the managership of one of a number of major league clubs now casting about for pilots for 1928.

"Why, yes," he replied without hesitation. "Like every ball player, I'd be glad to have charge of a major league club and at least see if I could make a success of it."

Johnson left Sunday for Virginia, to be present at the judging of some hunting dogs. Few men know more about them than the pitcher.

I expect that in a few days Griffith will hear from the other owners that they agree to my release," he explained. "Then I'll see what I will do."

Are you going to miss pitching? "I sure will," he answered with that ready smile so familiar to baseball photographs of the past two decades.

But then, if the opportunity presents itself, I may get into uniform and pitch a few games, even now."

I love baseball. It's brought me too much for me to get giving up any part of it until I have to."

"What was the greatest thrill you got out of the game in 20 years?" "Well," replied Johnson thoughtfully, "you see I was with the Senators so long, and we were in a rut for so many years, and the fans were for me, and so kind to me all those years."

He hesitated a minute.

I guess the thing I like to remember most about baseball is how we finally got to the top and into the world series of 1924 with the Giants, and how the fans came to me and my friends came to me and everyone was so glad about it, and then there came the chance to pitch for them, and I did, and won."

There was that last game," he continued, after a pause, "and I was lucky to get my chance, the chance to go in there and pitch the deciding inning, when we won the world's championship. It was lucky, that's all."

Thus spoke Walter Johnson about his greatest triumph, the final defeat of the New York Giants in that famous 12-inning game before the fans of Washington.

"I was lucky," he says.

Well, that is Walter Johnson's way. If you could look inside his mind today you would find that he now considers himself just a little bit unlucky—in having to sever his connections with the Washington club he served so ably and so long.

Victim's Brother Aids State. The state will have for an ally Harry F. Brown, of Ford, Ontario, brother of Mrs. Remus, who has announced that he will remain in Cincinnati to aid the prosecutors.

Brown today ridiculed Remus' statements that he is penniless and a report that Romola Remus and Remus' first wife were raising a $5,000 defense fund in Chicago.

"Romola Remus," Brown said, "was recently paid $25,000 proceeds of the sale of beer from the Freiberg and Workum distillery at Mayville, Wisconsin. Remus recently received $11,000 from Miss Blanche Watson, of Covington, Ky., as his share of the proceeds from the sale of certain whisky certificates."

George Remus, who made a million dollars by bootlegging—who believes fate controls his destiny—has 20 days more before embarking upon his attempt to win acquittal for killing his wife on October 6, the day of their divorce hearing.

Saturday he pleaded "not guilty" to the grand jury indictment of first degree murder which charged "premeditated and malicious" murder.

St. Louis Racer Killed in Crash

Vincennes, Ind., October 16.—(AP)—Arthur Cain, St. Louis race driver, was instantly killed and Ira Hall and Charles Crawford, both of Terre Haute, were seriously injured in a crash that marred the races held at the George Rogers Clark speedway, near here, this afternoon.

Cain was killed instantly when his machine turned over on the thirty-fifth lap of the last race, a 20-mile event.

Hall was cut about the face and suffered a possible fracture of the shoulder when his car crashed into the fence after skidding on the eighth lap of the second event, a 10-mile race. Hall had won the first 10-mile race.

Crawford suffered possible internal injuries when his machine skidded and struck the fence on the seventeenth lap of the last race. He was thrown clear of the car and hit on his head on the track.

TURKS PRESIDENT BEGINS ADDRESS TO LAST 7 DAYS

Angora, Turkey, October 16.—(AP)—President Mustafa Kemal Pasha started a record oratorical flight when he began his seven days speech at the opening of the first general congress of the Turkish peoples party.

The section of the speech delivered today was of historical character and pictured what he "described as the tragic situation of Turkey in 1919.

His program is the creation of an entirely new Turkish state on the basis of absolute independence, especially in foreign relations, Kemal declared.

HAWK-EYE-ING SPORTS

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Doping It Out. As the Saturdays slip past the dopsters find the going harder with each week. There may have been a season of such football upsets some time before in modern history but it escaped our notice.

Just for instance recall last Saturday with its disastrous effects of guessers who believed they could guess football scores in advance. Our efforts were rewarded with an average of perhaps 20 per cent correct—no more—but then we are not supposed to be good guessers.

There are others, however, who have established reputations as pickers who ruined their record on Saturday in so far as southern teams are concerned. One of our exchanges brings in a New York paper which has a sporting editor of the psychic type and his success is known throughout the nation. He picked 20 teams to win Saturday and missed exactly nine of them.

What's the answer? It seems very simple—almost as simple as we are who try to pick winners in advance. Football is becoming a fine science. With each passing year colleges and high schools are introducing new methods of training and coaching which can result in but one thing—advanced football in each class.

It wasn't so long ago that high schools even in the larger cities were coached by part-time mentors who based their only claim to fame on some remote performance on the diamond or on the track. It wasn't so long ago that even the biggest colleges and universities were dependent upon one coach or perhaps two for the instruction of their gridiron athletes. Today even the smaller schools have coaching staffs of from three to five men and with each year comes some new strategy or some new training method.

Football is begun on the sandlots under expert coaching and by the time an athlete reaches an institution of higher football he knows much of the game. Now it is possible for a small school with a small squad to "prime" for a superior opponent and shoot its whole bag of tricks for victory.

In these days of heavy schedules the bigger schools must take their games in their stride and upsets are bound to result. That is as it should be. Otherwise the football honors would be confined to a few of the major universities and the little fellows would have to remain to themselves.

It is mighty hard on so-called experts who attempt to pick winners in advance but any man in this day and age who is foolish enough to try his psychic powers on football scores deserves no sympathy.

N'THWESTERN STANDS OUT IN TITLE RACE

Chicago, October 16.—(United News)—Northwestern university once considered the "weak sister" of the western football conference, has gained an early lead toward the big ten championship as a result of her 19 to 13 victory Saturday over Ohio State at Columbus.

Northwestern has four more chances to lose and if the team falters once the title is lost.

Second in favor appears the Michigan eleven which tied with Northwestern for the championship last year. The Wolverines performed as expected by beating Wisconsin 14 to 0.

Minnesota, advanced before the season opened as the most powerful team in the conference, is still undefeated, but failure of the Gophers to more than tie the Indiana can mean only that they were overrated. Indiana's two touchdowns lowered Minnesota's rating considerably.

Chicago beat Purdue by a single point Saturday when they were expected to lose by two touchdowns. The 7 to 6 victory gave the Maroons two conference games to their credit.

Although Northwestern defeated the Buckeyes decisively the latter showed a lot of strength and will be favored to beat both Chicago and Wisconsin.

Illinois has yet to receive its baptism of fire in the big ten this season, but inability of the team to earn more than a 12 to 12 tie with Iowa State does not speak well for its chances.

Saturday's Upsets. Most disappointing of Saturday's upsets was the failure of Purdue's "second Red Grange" to perform as scheduled. Ralph Welch, the sophomore, who proved a sensation against Harvard, likewise proved that fame is momentary. His work against Chicago was not at all excellent and he was outplayed in all departments of the game by Harmons, his running mate.

FEDERAL FARM AID LEADERS TO MEET IN HOUSTON OCT. 24

Little Rock, Ark., October 16.—(AP) Announcement has been made by George W. Donaghey, former governor of Arkansas, that a meeting of leaders in the federal farm aid movement will be held in Houston, Texas, October 24.

Donaghey, who issued the call for the meeting said the purpose of the conference would be to bring together various groups of the south and west that favor federal farm aid and plan, cooperation of all forces in the next session of congress. T. H. Caraway, United States senator from Arkansas; Congressman Charles Brand, of Ohio; B. W. Kilgore, chairman of the American Cotton exchange; E. E. Crabtree, of Jacksonville; and Clarence Owsley, director of the Texas Safe Farming association, are among the leaders who have signified an intention to attend the conference, Donaghey said.

Regrets Are Sent By Czechoslovakia On Envoy's Death

Prague, October 16.—(United News)—Foreign Minister Benes, of Czechoslovakia, former president of the League of Nations council, has telegraphed his government's regrets to Albania, whose minister to Prague, Tsena Bey, was assassinated Friday in Prague.

Police continued to question Alziawith Bey, 18, the assassin, who said he feared Bey was going to betray Albania to Yugoslavia. Extremely intelligent, Bey, a Berlin student, speaks three languages.

"RED" GRANGE IS INJURED IN GRID GAME

Chicago, October 16.—(AP)—Harold "Red" Grange came near ending his famous football career today in a collision with an opposing player. He was carried off the field during a game between the New York Yankees and the Chicago Bears in a national football league game, with a pulled tendon in his right leg, below the knee. It was at first thought the star's leg was broken.

"I thought it was my knee," said Red, "until we got to the hotel; but I think treatment will bring it around all right."

Trafton, of the Bears, bowled Grange over as the famous red head received a pass near the close of the fourth quarter, and Grange lay stunned. Grange said his injury was only such an accident as might happen in any game, and did not blame Trafton. He expects to take a week's rest and hopes to be able to play against Green Bay next Sunday.

Examination of Grange at the hospital disclosed a badly-torn ligament in his right knee and the calf of his leg was broken bones. He injury may keep him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

The injury is the first serious one Grange has suffered in football.

Open to All Women. The tourney is open to all women golfers of the city and a large entry list is anticipated by those in charge of the arrangements.

Owing to the fact that the Piedmont course is especially severe on those giving strokes, match play will be used but half the handicap difference employed between opposing players.

For example, if one player has a handicap of 6 and is drawn against a player having a 12 handicap, the number of strokes given would be 3 in stead of the customary 6.

Winter rules will prevail throughout the tournament.

Welker Cochran Will Defend Title Dec. 19

New York, October 16.—(AP)—Welker Cochran, world's 18.2 ball-line champion, will defend his title in a 1,500-point match against Jake Schaefer in New York December 19-21.

The match, the first under the new rules in New York, will consist of five blocks of 300 points each. Previous championship matches have been played in three blocks of 500 points each.

PRINCE OF WALES TO PRESENT BOBBY CUP IF HE WINS OPEN

Sandwich, England, October 16.—(AP)—If Bobby Jones wins the British open golf championship for the third successive time when the big event is played here next summer, he will receive the trophy from the hands of the most distinguished sixteenth-handicap player in the whole world of golf—the Prince of Wales. The heir to the British throne, who yesterday was elected unanimously captain of the Royal St. George's club, where he plays most of his rounds in the late nineties, wants to see Bobby defend his title and has expressed a desire to present the championship cup.

While nobody in England has been informed officially that Jones is coming to participate in the open next summer, nobody doubts that Bobby will be on the first tee when the championship begins.

THE GUMPS—BIG CHIEF-DUCK-ON-THE-ROCK

They Wouldn't Believe
By Roy Vickers

SYNOPSIS.

On the way to Donald Brierley's house at Rubington for luncheon Connie Elmore, Donald's fiancée, tells her friends Olive Weston that Donald stands a chance of inheriting half a million from the estate of old Harrowby, a friend of Donald's father.

Oliver and Connie share a flat in London. Oliver is secretly in love with Donald but sincerely pleased at Connie's good fortune in winning him.

Handie and Querk, solicitors handling the Harrowby estate, are crooked and plot to cheat Donald Brierley of the fortune by having a spurious heir appear whose claim is prior to Donald's. In the midst of the plotting Augustus Brierley, Donald's father, presumed to have died on the Titanic, calls on Handie. Querk suggests to Handie that he invite Brierley to Harrowby house and there with the assistance of Querk's tool, Wade, dispose of Brierley.

Connie decides to visit her old nurse, who is now caretaker of Harrowby house. Mrs. Jones is out but Connie finds the key and lets herself in to wait for her. She hears strange noises in the library and, going to investigate, she sees Handie and another man kill Mr. Brierley, whom she recognizes from his portrait. Rushing out of the house, Connie stumbles into Mr. Querk. While telling her story, Querk pushes her bell and sends a signal to the murderers. Connie sees a policeman and, calling him, tells him she has seen the men place the body. It is empty. Querk accompanies her to the police station, where she tells her story to the police superintendent. Querk intimates that she imagined the scene and in exasperation Connie goes to see Oliver, who believes her story.

Querk requests Handie to come to the superintendent's office and he presents his alibi, which the police officer accepts. The two lawyers proceed to Wade's office where old man Wade and his son, the spurious heir, await them. The old man dies just after they walk into the office.

INSTALLMENT LV.

PANIC.

While Olive was fighting her way through the maelstrom of events Connie had been beating desperately at the bars of her gilded cage.

As her eye was caught by the headlines in the newspaper that told of Donald Brierley's flight from the police she dropped the paper with a cry.

She lurched against the bed, shaken by an almost physical spasm. Her whole emotional being was stampered in panic, but part of her brain was telling her that this fresh horror was in some way concerned with herself—urging her to do something. Curiously, it was the unspoken, unwritten discipline of Maeston House that steadied her. The first rule in Maeston House, a rule that was never uttered and practically never broken, was—"Keep cool. You must not get flustered. Whatever you want, you will get it sooner if you are calm and orderly."

Presently she trusted herself to pick up the paper and read.

As she read and grasped the facts given in the summary there came growing confusion.

In that first moment of horror her conscious brain had leaped to the conclusion that the dead body found in the garden was the dead body of Donald's father—that she herself knew had been snatched out of the house in which he had been murdered.

Yet the Record was most positive in the statement that the murdered man had been identified as Turle.

In that case, nothing that she had done, nothing that had been done to her, would affect Donald. So her overwrought brain reasoned, while the whole of her that was not brain cried out that Donald's flight was the direct result of the police refusing to believe her word that Donald's father had been murdered.

She started out of her absorption as Nurse Flecker came in. The nurse glanced uneasily at her, then picked up the paper and folded it.

"I want to see the matron," said Connie, tonelessly. The matron, she thought, was a kind and clever woman, and would advise her.

"She won't see you before you've had your breakfast," warned the nurse. "You had better go down, Miss Elmore. If you can't eat anything, pretend to. Don't ask for her for about half an hour. Then I'll tell her you want to see her."

"Very well," she said, meekly.

"I am going down to the matron with this paper," said the nurse. "Remember, you swore you would not give me away. Just refuse to say where you got it—she can't make you say."

Connie was late for breakfast. Most of the others had finished and left the room. When she took her place at the table there were only two fellow patients—Miss Lawson, a stinging old maid who suffered from incurable kleptomania, and, sitting immediately opposite her, sipping his coffee while he read the Times, Sir Selwyn Courtwright.

Connie returned her greetings, told the waiter her requirements, and hoped Miss Lawson would not insist on conversation.

But Miss Lawson's eyes were fixed on Sir Selwyn Courtwright. The moment he laid down his paper she spoke.

"O, Sir Selwyn, I couldn't help noticing that you were reading that amazing murder case. Do tell us what it all means!"

Sir Selwyn pursed his lips. He was an extraordinarily fine figure of a man, broad browed, with piercing eyes under bushy eyebrows and iron gray whiskers—the typical embodiment of a successful lawyer.

"My dear Miss Lawson, I know no more than is printed in the paper. How could I?"

"But—"

"And I rather fancy Miss Elmore finds the subject distasteful."

It was a dignified reproof prompted by a very deep natural courtesy. He had seen Connie wince.

"Please don't mind me, Sir Selwyn," Connie forced herself to say. Again the supreme struggle for self-control! She had not guessed that she would have to endure this.

"No lawyer who is a lawyer will pretend to tell you what any jury will find in any circumstances, ma'am," said Sir Selwyn. "But any lawyer would tell you that on the facts at present available there is nothing approaching proof of that young man's guilt."

Connie's horror had passed. She was listening with an almost painful attentiveness.

"Let me explain," said Sir Selwyn. "The effect of evidence is always cumulative. An old man comes to this fellow Brierley's house. Brierley denies it. Nothing much in that. Next point. The body of an old man is dug out of his garden. That immediately strengthens the first point and makes it important. The body of the old man is identified as being that of a man who stood between the suspect and a considerable fortune. The case against him is something like a hundred times as strong as it was. The next point. He runs from the police, thereby apparently exhibiting guilty knowledge. The result of it is that in your imagination you've already hanged the man."

"But you said—you said you didn't believe him guilty any more than you believed him innocent!" protested Miss Lawson.

"Quite so! A lawyer regards such points of evidence as links in a chain. They are strong—they may be unbreakable—because they are linked together. Smash one of the links and the chain is broken. If I were defending that man the first link I would hammer on would be the identity of the corpse," answered the lawyer. "The features were rendered almost unrecognizable. The identification was made from papers in the boot. Well, any one can put papers in a boot. Until I have had a good look at those papers and questioned everybody connected with them I am not going to accept that man's guilt."

Sir Selwyn got up from the table and stumped out of the room.

Connie left her breakfast and hurried from the room. In the lounge Sir Selwyn confronted her.

"You're in trouble," he said, his voice soft as a woman's.

"O, no, thank you, I—I—"

"Yes, you are. You have some close personal interest in that murder case. That man Brierley is something to you. I could see it in your face when that fool of a woman was asking idiotic questions."

"He—I—we are engaged to be married," faltered Connie. "But please don't tell any of the others."

"Ah! The others! What have I to do with them?" rasped the lawyer. And then: "It is possible—just barely possible—that I might be able to help you in some remote way. But for the fact that I am engaged to suffer from the delusion that I am king of America, I am considered a tolerably sane individual. And what is perhaps more to the point, I have written and published two books on law since I have been officially certified as a lunatic. They think I suffer from a delusion, and I can't disprove it. But all this is to reassure you. Do you care to tell me anything you know about this murder? Because I can see you know something and are desperately anxious to make use of it."

man interest are here, combined with spectacular beauty and the very height of dramatic power. DeMille begins with the quest by the proud Magdalene in her zebra-drawn chariot of an admirer who has forsaken her. Then the story moves to the redemption of the Magdalene, rising to the grand sweep of the cleansing of the temple and the attempt to crown Jesus as King of the Jewish people. The terrific counter motive brings forth the betrayer of the Lord, the capture at Gethsemane, and the trial before Pontius Pilate, which is, perhaps, the loftiest dramatic theme of painting or story. Thereafter the grand events move to the world catastrophe on Golgotha, accompanied by eclipse, storm and earthquake.

An ending of wondrous sweetness and happiness is presented by the rising from the tomb of the Christ on Easter morn and His leave-taking from the eleven and the two Marys. With its myriad great sets of New Testament scenes, fine acting of 18 stars, fine restoration of the "King of Kings" has attracted a crowded and enthusiastic audience throughout long New York and Los Angeles runs and several road companies are now on tour. A feature of each of the productions is a touring symphony orchestra which plays the Hugo Riesenfeld accompaniment. Those who remember Dr. Riesenfeld's score for "The Ten Commandments" anticipate an equal treat from his "King of Kings" arrangement of the most inspiring motifs of Christian hymnody. The film is a series of scenes, including the birth of Christ, the journey to Egypt, the flight to Nazareth, the boyhood of Christ, the baptism of Christ, the temptation of Christ, the ministry of Christ, the passion of Christ, the resurrection of Christ, and the ascension of Christ.

One of the most delightful comedies produced this year, "Painting the Town," featuring Patsy Miller and Glenn Tryon, will be seen for the first time at the Erlanger theater. In "Painting the Town," Tryon has the role of a small-town youth who has big town ideas about wooing and winning the extremely sophisticated girl who is the town's chorus star. It's just one big laugh from start to finish.

Keith's Georgia.
"Football Sense," said to be the greatest treatise on the game ever evolved, is being shown this week at Keith's Georgia in addition to the feature film "Tell It To Sweeney," a program of five Keith vaudeville acts, "Football Sense" was developed by "Chick" Mehan, famous coach of New York university, and gives the details of the game, the "Kick" and "The Pass," two of the most important moves of the game. They are illustrated by slow motion pictures.

Capitol.
College spirit will reign at the Capitol this week. The ever-popular Collegians will be on the screen in a short subject, Dolores Costello in "The College Widow." will be the screen feature and on the stage beautiful Betty May and the Parisian Red Heads will do special college numbers. The whole bill will be charged with the spirit of youth and gaiety.

Loew's Grand.
"What Price Glory," the Laurence Stallings masterpiece, will inaugurate the new "Big Attraction" policy at Loew's Grand theater which will be launched today. This great picture will be offered here for the first time at popular prices. Because of the length of the production only three vaudeville acts will be presented but they will all be of the headline class. Charles Ahern will bring his famous "Millionaire" skit, a comedy feature as the headliner.

Forsyth.
Forsyth Players will present the second vehicle of the season, "What Anne Brought Home" at the Forsyth theater opening tonight for a run of one week at the Forsyth theater. Helene Dumas, delightful leading lady, and Walter Regan, talented leading man, will again star in the production which has for its theme the difficulties arising when a daughter brings her newly-wed husband to the home of her parents. "What Anne Brought Home" is one of the greatest, and most recent successes of Broadway, and the Forsyth Players are slated to make it such in Atlanta.

Metropolitan.
Atlanta theatergoers are to be offered a program this week at the Metropolitan theater that will doubtless attract immense crowds. Alla Axion, known as the world's greatest apostle of mental science, will appear at the deluxe performances.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

AFTER THE BATTLE OF GETTYSBURG THE SCENE OF ACTION SHIFTS BACK TO THE WESTERN THEATRE OF WAR.

LIEUT. GEN. BRAXTON BRAGG, C.S.A.

IN THE EARLY SUMMER OF 1863, WHILE GRANT WAS BESIEGING VICKSBURG, MAJOR-GEN. W. S. ROSECRANS WITH THE FEDERAL ARMY OF THE CUMBERLAND WAS POSTED AT NASHVILLE, TENN., WATCHING THE CONFEDERATE GEN. BRAGG, WHO HELD CHATTANOOGA. WHILE THE SIEGE OF VICKSBURG DRAGGED ON, ROSECRANS REMAINED INACTIVE, AND BRAGG MARCHED FORWARD TO SHELBYVILLE.

LATE IN JUNE, WHEN THE FALL OF VICKSBURG SEEMED CERTAIN, ROSECRANS ADVANCED TO MEET BRAGG, AND BY THREATENING TO OUTFLANK HIM, FORCED HIS OPPONENT TO RETIRE TO CHATTANOOGA WITHOUT FIGHTING A BATTLE.

The Campaign for Chattanooga.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

CHATTANOOGA WAS A MOST IMPORTANT STRATEGIC POSITION AND ALSO A VERY STRONG ONE. TO THE EAST AND WEST THE CITY IS GUARDED BY HIGH RIDGES. BEHIND IT, TO THE SOUTH, IS A BROKEN, MOUNTAINOUS REGION, AND BEFORE IT IS THE TENNESSEE RIVER. JUST BELOW THE CITY THE CURRENT IS VERY SWIFT, MAKING IT DIFFICULT FOR STEAMERS TO ASCEND THE RIVER.
